Guards Forced to Fire Into
Crowd to Save Their Own
Lives; 2 Are Wounded

DUBLIN, July 15.—Four persons have been killed and 20 wounded in a battle at Limerick between Free state troops and republican rebels, according to information from that city this afternoon. Fighting continued there more than one thousand prisoners in the jail.

Used Bricks From Walls.
An official communiqué said the rebels made a concerted attack upon the guards and it was necessary for the latter to fire upon the convicts to save their own lives. Two of the prisoners were wounded. The prisoners dug bricks out of the walls and used them as weapons. The jail was badly damaged.

An official military communiqué issued by Richard Mulcahy, minister of defense in the Irish provisional government, reported the position of the regulars in county Limerick satisfactory. The Free state troops had been hurried back to Limerick during the all-day battle that raged Friday but were able to turn the tide.

Many Near Starvation.
It is understood the regulars are withdrawing from Waterford. Limerick has been isolated and the people fear starvation. Hundreds are fleeing from the county, including numerous American visitors. Michael Collins, commander-in-chief of the Irish Free State army has gone to great headquarters to assume actual command, according to reports current here. Eamonn de Valera, commander of the irregulars is reported to have fled from Wicklow county. He is believed to be in Cork.

LONDON, Ireland, July 15.—A gunboat flying the flag of the Irish Free State arrived in Lough Swilly today. War materials were loaded and it is understood Free state troops will put up at Buncrana, where there is a large force of republican rebels, under siege.

MAY RESCIND ITS ACTION

Rev. Dutt May Be Requested to Remain Christian Pastor Here

When the board of the First Christian church, composed of 63 deacons and elders, holds its monthly meeting Monday evening in the church, it will be asked, it is understood, to rescind its action of the last session at which resolutions left the way free for the pastor, Rev. Meade Dutt, to consider a call from a California church. Though no congregational action has been taken, the majority of the church members have expressed their indignation in no uncertain terms at the board's step and a number of groups have drawn up condemnatory resolutions.

Long-term members of the church blame the situation upon several "shameful complaints" which have been brought about similar church dissension in similar manner in the past and have caused the church to lose its pastors and staff members one after the other in a comparatively brief space of time as it is measured in church affairs.

Oil Worth $1,500,000 Burned Near Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 15.—More than half a million barrels of oil, valued at about $1,000,000, went up in smoke late yesterday at the Magnolia Petroleum company's plant near Beaumont. The blaze was started by lightning striking an earthen tank and it quickly spread to three other surface tanks. The contents of all of which burned. The fire still is burning today and hundreds of laborers are working to save adjoining tanks.

It is expected that the United States customs receipts this year will break all records, amounting to $13,000,000.

America Is Land of Milk And Honey to Negroes of The British West Indies

Scene in front of American consulate at Bridgetown, B. W. I.

Next to China, with its 400,000,000 inhabitants, who live upon 4,277,170 square miles of area, the most densely populated area in the world today is Barbadoes, one of the British West Indies, remarked W. T. Hunt, Jr., vice consul at Bridgetown, B. W. I., who was a visitor in Tulsa last week.

Hunt made a flying trip home to see his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hunt, and brother, District Judge Albert T. Hunt, and after two days here hurried back to Mobile, Ala., to catch a steamer that brought him to the states for a short stay.

Vice Consul Hunt had a month's leave of absence, but the bulk of this time was spent on the sea.

Over 164,000 on Island.
The island of Barbadoes is 24 miles long by 13 miles wide, and has a population of approximately 164,000, of which more than 75 per cent are negroes. To these blacks the majority of whom are illiterate, Hunt says that the modern Garden of Eden is the United States.

"The life ambition of every negro on Barbadoes, and possibly the other West India islands," he said, "is to some day accumulate or come into sufficient money to migrate to the United States. There they expect to find conditions pleasant and harmonious, a liberal land of milk and honey."

"Thousands of negroes from the islands have flocked to this country and in New York City there is one section occupied wholly by former residents of the British or French islands."

"Vessels call at Bridgetown every two weeks, to and from the United States, and in addition to a heavy shipping business, the American consulate there spends most of its time examining petitions of negroes to come to this country. We insist that each person have sufficient money to keep them from becoming a public charge after they arrive here, and the rapidity in which the West India blacks have been leaving the islands has alarmed many of the white planters. closing days of the Wilson administration. He said that life on the island is pleasant, even though the summers are terribly long, always lasting 9 months and occasionally 10. There are no legitimate theaters on the island, and one motion picture show was to suffice the people.

Wild west films, taken in this country, are the chief pictures shown. Because the natives like them best. The blonder and whiter the pictures the bigger crowds flock to see them. High-class films fail to attract.

The whites, Americans, British and French, find considerable pleasure in playing golf, tennis, polo, cricket and other games. The finest sea bathing in the world is on the coast, and while man-killing sharks are seen outside the three-mile limit, they have never been known to come in close to the shore.

The social whirl is the principal occupation of the whites, and there is one continuous round of parties, dances and teas. The drives on the island are owned and operated by hotels scattered along them, and after playing a game of bridge the guests will motor to a hotel for lunch, then to another for a dance and so on.

Should Boost U. S. Shipping.
Passing the lighter side of Barbadoes, Vice Consul Hunt said that the West Indies, while loyal British in their national affiliations, look to the United States for the bulk of their supplies. Therefore, he said, the greatest of interest prevails there over the efforts that President Harding is making to build up an efficient American merchant marine.

"America has a wonderful opportunity to secure a firm foothold in the new world," said Hunt, "and all of the West India islands, as well as American seaport towns and cities, are genuinely for a first-class American merchant marine. This can be achieved if we keep our heads and do not allow opposition to interfere."

"Today the bulk of Barbadoes exports go to Canada. This year we will ship out around 55,000 pounds of molasses. Besides the sugar plantations, the principal industry, with molasses mills as a side line, considerable business is mined. This is a substance, similar to the asphalt found on the Isle of Trinidad."

The British Union Oil company is striving to find oil in large quantities on the island, and so far they have produced 150 barrels a day, but the gusher output is yet to be found. This company has a monopoly on the land of the island and has test wells drilling at the four corners of the island. Drillers and tool dressers from America are used.

Last summer, Vice Consul Hunt was given an opportunity to represent his excellency, the president of the United States, at a dinner given to the officers of the Brazilian battleship Minas Geraes, en route home after having spent 15 months overhauling and refitting at the Brooklyn navy yard. The consular corps was present and in his talk, Hunt said that he felt it peculiarly fitting that he, an American, speaking upon a British-owned island, was making a toast in behalf of the president of the United States to Brazilian naval officers. He said that he hoped that the entire cordiality that existed would continue indefinitely.

Doctors are scarce on the island, and usually have to have another profession, because the island is so healthy, with no malaria, that services of the practitioners are seldom sought.

RADIO EXAMS HELD HERE

Three Took Quiz Under Theo G. Deiler, Government Radio Inspector.

At the government radio license examinations held Saturday only three applicants presented themselves for examination. Theo G. Deiler, the radio inspector, examined these applicants both in theory and code speed, but will not know until a later date as to whether or not they passed.

Deiler plans to inspect the licensed stations in and around Tulsa while he is in the city, and will send some three inspectors to the two broadcasting stations here.

Deiler came here from Fort Smith, Ark., and plans to go next to Paris, Texas, where he will hold examinations. At the last examination held in Fort Smith, five applicants presented themselves, but all failed.

This is the first time that a radio inspector has come to Tulsa for the purpose of examining stations and applicants, and it is probable that he will not return for at least three months.

Speed Up Silver Coinage

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—Orders to speed up the coinage of silver dollars to replace part of $300,000,000 sold during the war as bullion to England have been received at the Philadelphia mint. Fifty thousand are to be coined daily and shipped to Washington for deposit in the treasury vaults. Silver certificates will be issued against them.

Over $5,000 freight cars and 600 locomotives have been ordered so far this year in the United States. Only $20 million of the cars were ordered in all of 1921, 581 locomotives being for shipment abroad.

Special to The World.

HENRYETTA, July 15.—Coal miners and railroad men, out of strikes, have joined the forces of the various municipal improvement crews constructing extension of the water and sewer system and street improvement, there being at this time more than $400,000 in city improvement under course of construction. Among the items being three storm sewers at a cost of $75,000, two sewer main extensions and disposal plant, $85,000; a water main extension, $45,000; and a Gamewell fire alarm system at a cost of $3,000. To which many have been added in order to show the city improvements now being made. The Seagrave 600-gallon twin-motor pumps supplied by the Seagrave company at Kansas City at a cost of $23,000. This improvement is being made by a vote of 8 to 1, and which bonds brought a higher price than any state municipal bonds sold since the war.

In addition to this bond issue the school board is erecting a four-room school building in one part of the city, and six one-room unit buildings in a U shape on another block to take the place of a four-room building recently torn down. On January 1, a census of the schools showed an actual increase enrollment of 3,225 pupils and 400 unaccompanied by reason of the lack of room in the present school buildings, but with the completion of the four-room new building and the six unit rooms, Henryetta will have 18 school buildings including senior and junior high schools, which will take care of the present requirements.
